Subject: RE: CHECO Replacement Fan Blades

Importance: High

Hello Tony,

I did make it home O.K.....had rain again always from Henrietta to Shreveport. Made the drive this time (350 miles) in 6 hours.....not bad.

Wild day today.....Fan Blade Assembly was installed this morning and we actually had to realign the shaft to achieve proper clearance inside the radiator housing. But the guys did a little adjusting and everything worked "just great". We should perform an engine start-up tomorrow and be able to deliver the unit back to CUDD on Saturday.

I can't "THANK " you enough and all of your TEAM for the exceptional work and hospitality shown to me, a new customer, yesterday. I received "FIRST CLASS" service and a "HIGH QUALITY" Professional product for our customer and I was extremely pleased and in awe of what yall do.

Please extend a hardy "THANK YOU" to everyone from United Engines and myself.

F y IPEG factory rep for GTI radiators called this morning and said "O.K." the factory said the fan blade was a WACO unit,81 inch p/n" #8-81-8R 17DEG 2.188RHB sold to MG Bryan.....and I responded "No.....CHECO.....not WACO". So I gave him your contact information and he said he would pass it along to General Thermal Dynamics that builds GTI radiators.

Great Job to all !!
